Forecast for Monday 20 Nov 2023

Weather: Mostly cloudy to start with some, mainly light rain. This largely easing by early to mid-morning with the cloud thinning and breaking for a time to allow some brighter spells. Cloud thickening again by midday with occasional rain or showers through the remainder of the afternoon accompanied by a strengthening breeze. The cloud then thinning and breaking through the evening and becoming mainly dry.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 600m: 40%

Low cloud and visibility: Occasional or extensive cloud, bases around 400-500m, but patches to 300m possible at times. The cloud rising above the summits for a spell through the first part of the day. Visibility mostly good or very good, but moderate in rain and occasional poor or very poor over the summits.
